VOLUME XXXIII. ANN ARBOR, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, JUNE 14, 1878. NUMBER 1691.

EVERY YEAR.

By ALBERT PIKE. The spring has been of brightness every year. And the snow has been whiteness every year.

Of the joys and sorrows blended, Every year. Of the love and friendship ended, Every year.

Of the joys and sorrows blended, Every year. Of the love and friendship ended, Every year.

A FOOLISH DUEL.

The Sequel of a Students' Dinner.

Seventeen years ago I was a student at the University of Paris. We were a gay set who frequented the restaurant of my esteemed friend Adolphe Baulneau.

"Select your partners!" exclaimed Maurice, in his clear, ringing tones. And each one looked at his neighbor with a certain interest.

"I was the last day of my university life, and it was the last day of three years of companionship with some of the noblest hearts I had ever met.

"By no means," replied Maurice Delavigne. "Victor Lemoine merely stays away to be consistent. Were he here in time his tardiness would be lost."

"There was a general laugh at this sally, which, however, had hardly died away when the door opened, and in stalked Lemoine, and with him a stranger, a young man of about his own age, whom he introduced as the Count de Vautrin.

"A mistake of mine, monsieur," replied that worthy functionary. "I thought that worthy functionary."

"So you did," answered Maurice, "but there are thirteen of us."

"The fresh cover was brought, Delavigne ensconced himself snugly upon my left, and the dinner then proceeded. The conversation was the most agreeable fellows in the world, and by the time the second basket of champagne had been opened no happier party could have been found within the walls of Paris.

"At first we contented ourselves with singing and shouting; but gradually became more and more reckless; we threw the fruit, of which Adolphe had provided a plentiful supply, at the pictures which adorned the walls. Finally, Delavigne leaped upon the table with a champagne bottle in each hand, and commenced a wild, extravagant dance, in which he was joined by several others, while the rest indulged in the same fantastic gyrations on the floor, yelling all the time at the top of their voices.

It was at this moment that Baulneau (the landlord) entered. He said nothing about the destruction of his china and pictures, for which he knew he would be paid, but he besought us to moderate our glee. The gendarmes, he said, would be in the house in five minutes, and after arresting us, would revoke his license.

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC.

Never keep horses shod when working on the farm. When a horse is hard to work in hot weather, half a day is too long to go without water.

To keep up a uniform flow of milk the year round, feed cows a couple of quarts each per day of meal, adding salt to it.

Your farm is your fixed capital. The improvements you make on it are investments. If you make them wisely they will add to your profits.

Hairness Polish.—Take of nutmeat two ounces; beeswax, six ounces; powdered sugar, six ounces; lampblack, one ounce; green tallow, two ounces, and water, one-half pint. Dissolve the soap in the water, add the other solid ingredients, mix well and add turpentine. Lay on with a sponge and polish off with a brush.

Cheese Ice-Houses.—Bore two or three holes in a hoghead and cover with a wire netting. Then place a layer of sawdust. Fill in with ice and the spaces with sawdust. One hundred pounds of ice may thus be made to keep a week.

When flour is genuine, or of the best kind, it holds together in a mass when squeezed by the hand, and shows the impression of the fingers, and even the marks of the skin, much longer than when it is bad or adulterated.

Instead of bringing the horse in when coated with mud, and sluicing him with cold or even tepid water, the mud should be wiped or scraped off so far as practicable, and then the legs wrapped round till dry.

A New York poultry farmer is credited with the statement that the first egg laid by a pair of domestic birds is larger than those dropped afterward, and is almost certain to hatch a male of exceptional size and vigor.

As a consequence of financial depression, the cultivation of the soil has grown in extent and the cultivators in numbers. Stocks may not yield, bonds may not rise, but the man who can see his sheep heading out, his cattle and sheep and swine waxing fat, and his corn crop growing sleek and silky, like a millionaire with an empty pocket, will not care to sell.

Salt for Wheat.—In answer to the queries, whether salt would be of any benefit to wheat on new land that had not been used before, it should be applied, and how much per acre, Mr. Elliott sends the following: Very much depends upon the soil, whether it be clay, loam, or sand.

Old plain pails and cans may be thoroughly cleaned with strong, hot lye. It is a good plan for a housekeeper to make a weekly visit to every part of her dwelling, from "garret to cellar."

A solution of copperas or green vitriol, sprinkled over the floor from time to time, makes a good disinfectant.

Quicksilver beaten up with the white of an egg and applied with a feather to every crack and crevice of a bedstead is the very best bug preventive.

There is no part of the year when cellar ventilation is so important as now. If the cellars cannot be thoroughly aired every day, the vegetables should be removed.

To clean a cistern water add two ounces borax to a twenty-barrel cistern of rain-water that is impregnated with oil, and give it a good stirring.

Wash used in pottery decoration should not be too thin. It is given body by the addition of a little alum. It can be heated by placing the jar containing it into one filled with boiling water. By no means set it on the fire.

For the past forty years, says an Englishman, I have made my breakfast of a pint of oatmeal porridge, with very rare exceptions, and nothing else, fasting for four hours afterward.

The venerable citizen, scholar, poet, and editor, William Cullen Bryant, died on the 12th inst., aged eight years, at his residence on 34 day of November last. The Ladies say that at least 300 partook of the dinner served last week to the "pioneers." By and by it will come to be said of the pioneers as of the old-time Methodist ministers, "What good eaters these pioneers are."

Ypsilanti Sentinel, June 5: "George Thompson, a farmer living in the township of Superior, while at work on the road this morning, was kicked by one of his horses and severely injured. An arm is broken and several teeth knocked out."

The local market is not very lively. Mack & Schmidt have a number of choice, well bred, and well-bred, 500 or 600 lbs. price paid for each, which is likely to be the ruling figure, though extra clips will probably command 27 cents.

"The Annots is requested to say that the graduation exercises of Ann Arbor in this county both at Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti, the latter part of this month, and that Gen. S. F. Cary, of Ohio, a man of infinite wit—as was superficial or cubic inches to the sea as a western tornado—and unequalled as a political prostrator, but not overburdened with financial wisdom, as chief performer. Can you make as many assertions to the hour as any other political mountebank and prove as few of them."

The Graphic of June 7 is at hand, with the illustrated history of Ann Arbor as its chief attraction to readers in this vicinity. Some of the "pictures" are creditable, but others would be scarcely recognized but for the index at the bottom. And that is not exactly reliable in all cases, as it interchanges the residence of Col. Burleigh and University Hall (giving the Col. "the biggest thing in town"), and also the residence of Judge Cooley and the Laboratory.

If the members of the Diocesan Convention held in Detroit last week were in the habit of service and purity of their lives they did a commendable act in voting him an annual pension of $1,500. But if his second resignation, unopposed and without reservation, was made at the demand of the Standing Committee and is to be taken, as intimated, as a confession of the charges against him, a better investment could have been made of the money.

FOREIGN NEWS.

The late attempt upon the life of the Emperor of Germany was attended with quite a chapter of fatalities. When the enraged populace broke into the assassin Nobling's apartment he fired upon them severely wounding Hofmeister, a kitchen-boy. The crowd, seeing him bleeding, supposed he was the assassin and fell upon him, and he was so roughly handled before he could discover their mistake. Nobling was killed, and Hofmeister was seized, fired two bullets into his head, producing a mortal wound. He was immediately taken to the hospital, and died while the van was passing rapidly through an archway at the entrance of the house, the driver struck him dead against the arch, with such violence that he was killed on the spot, producing instant death. The Emperor, at last accounts, was recovering from his wounds, nearly all the shooting having been done by him.

EMPEROR WILLIAM of Germany has issued a decree proclaiming a regency, and naming his son Frederick William as Regent of the empire. Thirty-seven persons have been arrested in Berlin for speaking disrespectfully of the Emperor's regency. One was sentenced to two and a half years imprisonment for bewailing the Emperor's fall. A. Poser, a printer, has been sentenced to four years' imprisonment for his disrespectful observations with regard to the Emperor.

A BUCHAREST dispatch says the execution of the Topolizars was a cold-blooded murder intended to terrorize the Serbian people, and it succeeded, in producing that effect. The Serbians will be provoked, and they only made some noisy public demonstrations against the Cabinet's policy in going to war without consulting the people.

GERMANY is in a ferment of excitement over the Socialist conspiracy, and the most stringent measures are being adopted by the imperial authorities to meet the grave crisis. Arrests continue in every part of the empire. Nobling, the assassin, made a second attempt at suicide the other day. His younger brother, an officer in the army, has been arrested as an accomplice.

A SPECIAL telegram from London to the Emperor at St. Petersburg, dated the 15th inst., received from Berlin speaks of a revolution in Germany as being profoundly disturbed. No one ventures to speak openly in extenuation of Nobling's crime, but, in private, men say that the Emperor is not a man to be trifled with. A Havana letter says: "The latest reports from the eastern department show a further increase of the Cuban revolution. The army and 150 men at San Juan, and the dissolution of the so-called new Government instituted by Maceo in that department. The revolution in Cuba over the island, and the people are preparing to celebrate the event with great festivities."

ANOTHER coal-mine horror is reported from the West. By an explosion in a colliery at Hopedale, 200 miners were killed, and many of them being fearfully burned and mutilated. Advice from Constantinople reported Bulgarians throughout Romania as perpetrating the most atrocious crimes. Gen. Todeben has ordered various measures of repression against the outlaws. Three Bulgarians taken red-handed were summarily executed on the spot. The roads in Bosnia are stopped. Highways are infested with robbers, principally Turkish deserters.

Six divisions of the Austrian army are to be sent to the front. The army is expected in Vienna dispatches that this corps is merely intended to be held in readiness to execute any decisions of the congress that may affect Austria, but the probability of the congress being adjourned is so great as to induce the belief that the army will be ready to fight for her interests, if they should be called upon to do so. The Shah of Persia has arrived in Paris.

THE SOCIALISTS OF EUROPE.

The ramifications of the recent conspiracy—Choosing Victims by Lot—The Crown Prince's Narrow Escape—Intense Feeling in Germany.

The Berlin correspondent of the New York Times says that the objects of the conspiracy were to assassinate the Emperor, and even the Grosser Kuririst calamity is hardly spoken of in presence of the attempted assassination of the Emperor. The country literally trembles with the shock, and the dispractic direction in the direction, and the Socialist rantings should lead astray a Hoedel is intelligible enough, but that a doctor of philosophy, an intelligent, highly-cultivated individual, and scion of a respectable family, could have been deceived by the absurd philosophy of the Commune, and stimulated to force his individual madness upon the common sense of the same millions was unexpected. The people were not prepared for this extreme result of the theory of the "red" party, and the intelligent man of some position in society and aspiring to scholastic honors could be betrayed into lifting his hand against this kind-hearted old man, the venerable sovereign of his people, and the long-remembered Emperor, whose long-remembered name there must be an infection in these doctrines which no one would have attributed to them a few days ago.

The London correspondent of the Chicago Times says a letter has been received from the Emperor of the Austrians, showing connection between the German Social Democrats and the Socialists of England. It confirms a previous allegation as to the plotters in London. It is now believed that the Emperor of the Austrians, who is in the British metropolis. HORRIBLE TRAGEDY.

A Georgia Farmer Brains His Wife, Her Sister, and Three of His Children, and then Commits Suicide.

From an Atlanta (Ga.) paper we glean the following particulars of a frightful tragedy which was recently enacted near Americus, Ga. The negro laborer of John W. Caldwell, well-to-do farmer, aged 45 years old, saw him standing on his house-top, waving his hand. He started to the house, and met his little girl, Emma, 5 years old, who said, "Pa has killed ma!" When they arrived at the house, the laborer entered, and contented in a body rushed for the embrace. Thirty got in, but were thrust out by the police. It is now believed that an attack on the Prince was thus frustrated, but the Socialist conspirators abroad felt secure enough of the event.
