THERE IS BLOOD ON THE MOON.

It was believed by the ancients that blood spattered on the moon before war.

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC.

AN Indiana farmer advises planting a few hills of broom-corn, as experience has taught him that for drying shocks or binding fodder this is very much preferable to rye straw.

When you see a farmer driving his horse and plow, driving him, it shows that he will never be driven from good resolutions, and that he will certainly work his way to prosperity.

If you are a farmer be a good one. Farm well. Have a good orchard, good garden, good stock, and a good family. Be intelligent yourself, and thus secure the respect of all who know you.—Ploverman.

THOMAS MERRILL says the objection against watering when the sun shines on the plants is a purely theoretical one, and applicable only to the young plants who have had but little actual experience. His advice is to water whenever the plants need it.

BREAK hard putty into lumps about the size of hen's eggs, place in kettle, cover with water and a little lard, and boil until the putty is soft; then pour off the water, and the result, we are informed, will be putty as pliable as when freshly made.

A WESTERN gardener says he has saved every one of his cucumbers, melon and cabbage plants, during the past five years, and also repelled the potato beetle, by sprinkling with water impregnated with gas tar, repeating the application if washed off by rain.

MANY growers do not consider a very early and vigorous growth of the hop vine an indication of a bountiful yield, as the vine often becomes hollow, and sends out unhealthy areas. Some producers are in the habit of removing the earliest shoots to give place to the later and more solid vines.

TO MAKE a white frock or a star in a horse's face, use a pickled mackerel and confine it on, in any shape you please three or four days repeating, and it will produce a white frock or a white spot. Rub the white saddle spots on a horse's back a few times daily in the spring of the year, before the coat is shed, with bacon grease, and it will restore the natural color.

MENTION is made in the latest report of the Western New York Horticultural Society of a man who planted quince, which were not to be used. He advised that they should no longer come before the ground, he poured around them brine from old pork barrels, with intent to kill. He builded better than he knew. The next season the trees were all dead, and the quince were all dead.

THE majority of farmers bend all their energies to producing heavy crops. Everything is crowded toward that one end, and in almost all cases the result is an inferior crop. A good crop is a prize at an annual fair is to be competed for, quality not quantity is aimed at. What is the inducement in this case? The money premium, of course. Well, what is the inducement in growing regular crops? The money price in the public market? And now, again? Why is not every crop grown for quality? Why should we only under the stimulus of a local exhibition, grow a good crop, and then at once give up? Every man's experience is, that a good article always pays; then why are poor ones taken to market?—There is but one answer to these questions.—St. Rufus Mason, in Moore's Ruralist.

RAISING ARTICHOKES FOR HOES.—Select a field that you do not intend to use for any other purpose, for when once planted it is difficult to get artichokes out of the land. It will produce crops for several years, and then at once be turned to pasture of the cows, the plants would soon die out; but it is better to fence off a portion, plow it up and plant it in artichokes, and every fall let the hogs into the artichoke lot to feed upon them. In the spring, before the spring plow and harrow the lot, keep the hogs out till fall, and there will be a crop of artichokes again to feed the hogs the following winter. If before frost the stocks are cut, and cut stacked up, they will be ready for use in the spring, and will be turned to pasture of the cows, the plants would soon die out; but it is better to fence off a portion, plow it up and plant it in artichokes, and every fall let the hogs into the artichoke lot to feed upon them.

POTATO NOODLES.—Grate one dozen of boiled potatoes, add two eggs, a little salt, one half cup of milk, enough flour to knead stiff, then cut in small pieces, and roll them out on a board, and fry in plenty of lard to a nice brown.

EGG TOAST.—Take and beat up five eggs in a good-sized pan, put a pint of milk in another, then toast seven or eight slices of bread, dip in the milk, then in the egg, fry in hot lard, put on a hot plate and sprinkle with sugar. Very nice.

ANTS.—Being acid themselves, alkalies are obnoxious; hence chalk, lime or soda are useful, but kerosene oil is infallible when it crosses "their line of march." A dish of livery-nuts will attract the large black ones, and they can be destroyed.

TO REMOVE FLESH MOLES.—Apply mastic made up of one part of a broom straw, and apply to the mole, until it sinks perfectly flat, one application will suffice, only being necessary; it will be sore for over a week, and will come off in a small scab, and soon heal over.

HOW TO CAN STRAWBERRIES.—Take fresh picked berries, and add sugar, allow to stand one hour, and then put them in a kettle or pan five minutes; heat the cans, and seal boiling hot. This rule has been successfully tried, and the flavor of the fruit is much nicer than when water is added.

TO REMOVE PAINT AND PUTTY FROM WINDOWS.—Put sufficient polish into hot water to make it very strong; it will saturate the paint which is dabbed on the glass with it; let it remain till nearly dry; then rub off hard with a woolen cloth. Parsley water is also good to use on the glass, and it is good to the glass. If it dries on, whitening is good to remove it.

COCKROACHES AND WATER BUGS.—These can be trapped and afterward destroyed by placing vessels containing molasses where they abound. A small stick should be laid from the edge of the vessel to the molasses, and the cockroaches will be attracted to it. Pills of phosphorus will destroy them, and Paris green or powdered borax drive them away. The roots of the black hellebore scattered in their haunts is an infallible remedy.

TO KILL BED-BUGS.—The only certain cure for bed-bugs is a solution of corrosive sublimate, which is a deadly poison, and kept out of the reach of children and servants.

THE STATE CONVENTION.

The Democratic State Convention at Lansing on Wednesday was largely attended and its action was harmonious. Hon. Foster Pratt was both temporary and permanent chairman, and in entering upon the discharge of his duties made a ringing speech. Gov. Felch, of this city, was chairman of the committee on resolutions, and with him were associated long-tried and able Democrats, Democrats representing various shades of opinion. The platform reported was opposed by three or four delegates and various amendments were proposed, but after brief discussion it was adopted by an almost unanimous vote. It is an outspoken, manly declaration of time-tested and time-honored principles, such as we have no doubt will meet the hearty approval of ninety-nine of every hundred Democrats in the State. It is as follows:

The Democratic party of the State of Michigan, in convention assembled, renewing its fidelity to its time-honored principles, standing for a sacred preservation of the nation's faith, for the constitution and the laws, and for the great truth that this is a government of the people where the will of the people should rule, hereby declare:

1. That we arraign the Republican party for its corruption in office, its unwise legislation, and its wicked perversion of the people's will as expressed at the polls. It has squandered the public funds, squandered the public funds, and corrupted the whole body politic.

How much would the note of ex-Gov. Baldwin, or ex-Gov. Bagley, or ex-Senator Chandler be worth in the Detroit market if it was given without interest and with no date of payment, and with the understanding that it never was to be paid except in another piece of paper essentially its duplicate? Either of those men might be known by every man in the city to be abundantly good, nevertheless nobody would receive the note of either of them conditioned as above. And that is just what the fate of an inconvertible and irredeemable greenback will be when it comes to be understood that the Government doesn't mean to pay it in coin. The "absolute money" dodge is the merest bosh.

BRIER POMEROY, the apostle of the National-Greenback party says: "If the Government should make coins to be a legal tender as it makes pieces of gold or silver to be money, by affixing its stamp thereon, then it could say that every household, every soldier, every man who had a claim against the Government, should be tendered this greenback money." And yet the average greenbacker will throw up his hat and "hurray for Pomeroiy and absolute money."

IN CONVERSATION a few days ago with a prominent citizen and business man of Grand Rapids we took occasion to inquire about the standing of the National-Greenback candidate for Governor, Henry S. Smith, and learned that he was a man without any political or official experience, and that he had proved himself thoroughly incompetent to discharge the duties of Mayor, to which position he was elected in April. Is that the kind of a man the people of Michigan should make Governor?

THE DEMOCRATS of the Eighth Congressional district met in convention at Saginaw City on Thursday, reaffirmed the platform adopted by the State Convention on the preceding day, and nominated Hon. Bradley M. Thompson, the popular Mayor of East Saginaw.

THE Republican convention held at Jackson on Wednesday unanimously renominated Congressman McGowan.

POLITICAL CLIPPINGS. —The jobbers who were interested in all the salary schemes before Congress are fiercely howling in their rage at Speaker Randall. Too much credit cannot be given Mr. Randall for the Roman-like firmness with which he resisted all these raids upon the treasury.

—In the Louisiana and Florida scandals the witnesses are Republicans, and yet it is the fashion among Republican newspapers to denounce them as perjurers. In fact one Republican after another has been repudiated as a liar and a villain, until the public is beginning to ask if there were any honest men at all among the carpet-baggers. It is no affair of ours, but our esteemed cotemporaries are in a fair way to foul their own nest beyond living in it decently.

—The conclusion is irresistible, that if all the Republican leaders in Louisiana were knaves, as is now claimed by their Northern associates, the pretenses upon which they returned the actual vote of the State were the shameless devices of fraud.—N. Y. World.

—Mr. Bristow doesn't talk kindly to the third term talk, and says that Grant should be patriotic enough to decline a nomination if tendered him—get off his horse, in other words. The General will probably not be so accommodating in the event named. Bristow's chances of a preferment under a third term wouldn't be good. The whisky ring, now looking after the Grant interest, would make it a condition precedent to their nomination of Grant that he should resign Bristow in Kentucky. It probably wouldn't be necessary to urge that point.—Chicago Times.

—The story is going about that General Grant says that he is tired of public life. It would be unwise as well as altogether too easy to retort that public life is tired of Grant. We prefer to say that some of the men who fastened themselves upon him during his term of office, and who are again using his name to further their own interests, might well make Grant feel the weariness which he complains.—N. Y. Evening Post.

—In the county of Hamilton, Ohio, Sam Cary is as utterly without influence, political or otherwise, as a man could be. The people of Cincinnati would laugh in derision at the suggestion of Sam Cary's being a reliable political guide or teacher, but up here in Michigan among the absolute paper moneyites, he is looked upon as a great and good giant, and is paid thirty or forty dollars a speech for instructing people on financial problems! Long live bumbung!—Adrian Times.

—Every sign of the times points to an early return of prosperity in this country. The surplus of exported merchandise over imported for the past year is shown to have been $250,000,000 worth. This balance in the nation's favor is unprecedented in size. The exports of the exports of American goods over foreign imports for the past five years is placed at $600,000,000 worth.—Chicago Journal.

—The Republican journals which have contended that the Potter investigation could not possibly find out anything for which they and their friends suddenly became less ready with their sneers. This is pretty strong negative evidence that they recognize the danger inflicted on the reputation of the party and of some of its leaders.—N. Y. Herald.

—Every one whose reputation and character exclude him from popular confidence on his own account will be found shouting his loudest for Gen. Grant. Of course, these operators care nothing for him. They do not heed what damage they may inflict upon him if only they can get a fresh lease of prominence and of spoils.—Utica (N. Y.) Herald.

—Wendell Phillips advises the Greenbackers to "trade with no party and stand ready to absorb either." This is high-toned advice, but about as practical as was a recent disastrous attempt of an ambitious Indian to lasso a locomotive.—Boston Post.

—The Potter Committee may rest content that they'll not get anything out of Noyes. He may not be a very smart man, and a trifle lame besides, but he'll walk a thousand miles rather than write a letter. That's the kind of a man Noyes is.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

JENKS-ANDERSON.

Honors of the Potter Investigation.

PHILADELPHIA, March 25, 1878. My DEAR MR. JENKS: I have been waiting for some days, and hence have not answered your last amusing letter. I have just received your letter of the 21st inst., and I am glad to hear that you are so satisfied with the result of the investigation. I have been very busy, and have not had time to write you more fully.

A WHOLE FAMILY IMMOLOATED.

Four Children Burned to Death and One Impaled—Their Father Fatally Burned in Trying to Save Them. About a week since, at Slicker's Prairie, Mo., lived John Leonard, and his wife, married daughter, and five younger children. The house was a substantial log structure, with an attic over the kitchen, and a porch on the south side. The door being so made as to connect the house with the kitchen, which stood the width of a hallway distant from the main house. A pair of stairs in this hallway led up to the attic, from which there was no other escape. Friday night the five children went to sleep in the attic, the other people sleeping in the room below. During the night, the kitchen caught fire, and before the danger was discovered, the staircase leading to the attic had little difficulty in escaping to the porch, though the only door was exposed to the intense heat, there was a window from which they easily gained places of safety. But for the children in the attic, they would have been safe.

THE "NORTH AMERICAN."

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 10, 1878. My DEAR MR. JENKS: Your last two letters may not have been funny, but they were laughable. I have been thinking of you a great deal lately, and wondering how you are getting on. I have been very busy, and have not had time to write you more fully. I have been thinking of you a great deal lately, and wondering how you are getting on.

POLITICAL.

MR. ANDERSON: Permit me to congratulate you on the discovery of your El Dorado letter, which has so long existed as a bright spot in your imagination. It is a very interesting letter, and I am glad to hear that you have discovered it. I have been thinking of you a great deal lately, and wondering how you are getting on.

CURIOSITIES OF POPULAR AND ELECTORAL VOTES.

The report of the House of Representatives committee in favor of an amendment to the constitution to provide for the election of the President by the people, through the instrumentality of electoral colleges, has been the subject of much discussion. The committee has reported in favor of the amendment, and it is expected that it will pass the House.

THE BANNOCK INDIANS.

Gen. Crook, the best Indian fighter in the country, says that it is a hard thing to be forced to kill the red men. He has been fighting them for some time, and he is tired of it. He says that they are a brave and noble people, and that they should be treated as such.

THE FEMALE WITNESS.

(From the New York Sun.)

John Sherman was almost hopelessly damaged when he appeared to testify in his own behalf as to the guarantee which he had given to Weber and Anderson on the 20th of November, 1870. Before the investigation was ordered, he repeatedly and to different responsible persons authorized an emphatic and unqualified denial of ever having written any such letter, and denounced any letter of that purport, bearing his name, as an absolute forgery. When confronted with a copy of the letter, and dreading the production of the original or of a fac simile, he hesitated, dared not deny, and admitted there were parts of the letter he would have written.
