The girls were one on each side; the elder one peering at me with her great blue eyes, and evidently wondering whatever it was that mamma was to make up her mind about. I was just going to answer when I caught her curious gaze, and then I stopped.

"I'll tell you all about it when the children go off to bed," I said.

Lucy dropped her head with a blank expression of disappointment, which Ronald observed with infinite amusement. There was a little nod across the table to me, and a whisper about little pitchers having long ears, which made Lucy blush. Presently we went to the Lucy blush. What proportion exists between the beggars and the whole people of our own country I have been unable to learn, but the proportion must be more favorable than that of England. In Massachusetts about one in twenty is a I never held a piece of property in my beggar. From such a basis we may infer that our land possesses fully 2,000,-000 of dependents, aside from those made dependent by being deaf, or insane, or sick. And, when we remember that of these millions the cities contain the largest ratio, and the most dangerous class, the question of duty becomes important to the degree of painfulness. The fact that of late years, since our last war and the last commercial crisis, the number of able-bodied beggars has sell something, quite an amount, to good and both animals are of equal increased, and that Communism has have carried me out of Washington; sprung up to hasten on to criminality but with my private income and inany who were once only indolent, does not lessen the value and painfulness of our inquiry.

English law had forbidden tramps able-bodied, sturdy and valiant beggars"-to beg out of the town where he had resided for three years. This would diminish imposture by limiting its eloquence of the tale of woe to those ears which would know how false or true it were. Henry VIII. made a severer law, whereby a second offense involved the loss of the right ear, and for a third transgression the tramp was indicted for "wandering and loitering and idleness, and was put to death as an enemy of the country." Then, later, he was branded with the letter "V" (vagabond) for first conviction, and with "S" for econd, and to be a slave for life to the nighest bidder; running away from this ervice, he was put to death. Herbert Spencer, though with half-veiled language, approved of letting this drone of the hive die of starvation or disease. Thus the great modern teacher of social science joins hands with the Chinese, who kill all apparently surplus hildren, and with the fabled Northmen, who put their aged parents to death. The relations of Christianity toward able-bodied beggars must be mite different from the relations of Henry VIII. or of Herbert Spencer toward that class. Under the lead of Christianity there are amiable people who do look the matter fairly in the face, and who do not see the kind of face seen by the author of "Social Sta-

How Grant is Fixed Financially. On arrival here I found a large mail, in which was a letter from you, inclosing a paragraph about Murphy's bankruptcy and my losses in real estate. So far as I am concerned there is not one word of truth in the statement. I never owned or purchased a piece of real estate in New York city in my life. I never owned any property in New Jersey, except the two houses at Long Branch which I now own, in my life life, that I remember of, on which I owed anything. What I have—not much—is paid for. I have sold nothing to pay up my debts. My farming experience in Missouri, being so far away myself, was expensive, and I sold out and gave away my stock and rented the farm. That was several years ago. A Curious Story. A curious story about the revenge inflieted on Gen, Meade during the war by some newspaper correspondents is told by a correspondent of the Philadel-phia Times. Just before one of Meade's contemplated movements the correspondent of a Philadelphia newspaper sent to it a dispatch describing the General's plan, with an injunction not to use the intelligence until he telegraphed "all right." This last dispatch failed to reach the newspaper office, and the General's plan was published before it was executed. Gen. Meade was very angry, and, refusing to accept the correspondback and forth within the lines, bearing a placard announcing that he was suf-fering punishment for giving information to the enemy. As soon as he was released he hastened to Washington, and, laying his grievances before the correspondents in Newspaper row, they met and passed a resolution as follows: Gen Meade's name shall never be mentioned again in dispatches by any newspaper correspondent except in case of defeat. All the successes of the army he commands shall be credited to Gen. Grant."

THE NEW MAGDELEN.

No More Dunning! I propose now to put my matters of collections into the hands of collecting men, to do this business for me. I will not waste my whole time this coming winter in begging and teasing for money due me. You need not come to me to prolong the time, it will be of no avail to you. It is the money I want to pay my debts. I have borrowed money to pay debts to favor those that owe me as long as I intend to, these favors are not equitable. Now if you have not got the money just get it as you have compelled me to do. It can't hurt you any worse to pay interest than it does me. It is an actual necessity for me to collect every dollar due, and I must do it.

Now come down with eash to prevent a smash

As quick as ever you please, If you delay the devil's to pay Besides the lawyers fees.

Mills' FEED COOKER!

Patented May 14, 1878, by F. E. MILLS AND C. CLAGER.

We claim to have more heating and less cooling surface than any other cooker, consequently greater economy in fuel. The furnace being submerged in water, cannot be broken by moving or being tipped over; no danger from fire or explosion. Any child that can build a fire can manage it. It will save one-third of your feed; will cook from 4 to 5 bbls. at once.

A TELEGRAM from Dodge City, Kan., says fifteen cattle men and Company I of the Fourth Cavalry fought a band of Indians, thirtyve miles south of Fort Dodge. One or two Indians were killed, and one soldier wounded. The military fell back, and the Indians went on northwest. The dispatch adds that the Indians have killed several herders and stolen a great many horses within the last few days.

GEN. HOWARD has collected all the bands of surrendered Indians at Camp Me-Dermott, in Oregon. The whole of them, about have captured several important positions loaded with coffins and boxes containing 1,000 in number, are held as prisoners, sub-1,000 in number, are held as prisoners, subject to orders from the authorities at Washington... We have news of a fight with the Bannocks in the norfliwestern corner of Wyoming, near the Montana and Idaho lines. Lieut. Bishop, with part of Capt. Jack Hayes' company of the Fifth Cavalry, with a number of Arrapahoe and Shoshone scouts under Chief. Black Coal, surprised a party of hostile Bannocks and captured, killed and dispersed the band.

spread it broadcast over the West, in which Mr. Windom assumes to explain issued by the Fiatists, which contained away the reductions made in the last and present Congress, and do deny the results which were achieved after the House of Representatives had passed drill, and threatening to overthrow the Government. It was a notorious fact out of Republican hands through the tidal wave of 1874. Every observer of affairs in the last three years, when, owing to the general distress, attention has been more fixed on these subjects than usual, knows that an immense saving has been effected in all branches of the public service since the power of the Republican party was broken in Congress by the loss of the House; and, if one cause more than another contributed o that remarkable change, it was the abuse of power in voting away the people's money, and the corrupt objects to which it was appropriated. The people in their wrath took the first weapon they could find to break the head of the party that was guilty of these wrongs, and Massachusetts was more conspicuous than any other in electing the Democratic ticket, in order to emphasize her indignation at the prodigality and open venality of successive Republican Con-

It was no love for the Democracy that led to that phenomenal change in polities, but a resolute purpose to sweep away into disgrace and exile the men who had prostituted their trusts to selfish uses, and to admonish the party which had tolerated them that there must be an end to that sort of corrupt rule. These facts are familiar to the whole country, and yet Mr. Windom tries to break their force by misrepre-senting the actual good that has been accomplished, in spite of his constant, bitter, and unqualified opposition, which the majority of the Senate always sustained, and which the departments supported with false and exaggerated state-

Take a few illustrations, which are fresh, and easily disproven if any way erroneous. A comparison of the last three years with a Democratic House. and the preceding three years when the Republicans had full swing, will show the difference in the appropriations actually made, as follows:

...$417,077,903.96 It is thus seen, by deducting the bills passed by the House from the appropriations actually made, that if the ate had accepted them there would have been a further reduction of $26,518,- 593.45. When these bills went to the Senate, Mr. Windom and his political associates increased them as follows:$157,419,767,86 161,852,269,41 . $468,260,922,52 Deduct same bills as passed House for these years as above..... 417,077,903,99

Increase by Senate.....$ 51,183,018,53 There is no possible escape from this showing, which proves that after the lesson of 1874, and the hard times since 1873, the Republican party has either learned nothing, or is unwilling to run outside of the old ruts.
