

DEMOCRATIC STATE TICKET.

For Governor—ORLANDO M. BARNES, of Ingham. For Lieutenant-Governor—ALFRED P. SWINNEY, of Marquette.

LEGISLATIVE TICKET.

For Senator—JOHN L. BURLEIGH. For Representatives—1st District—JOHN S. HENDERSON.

COUNTY TICKET.

For Sheriff—JOSIAH S. CASE, of Manchester. For County Clerk—PETER TUITT, of Dexter.

EMIL ZINCK is the name of the Republican candidate for Representative in the Third District of this county.

Don't forget to go and hear Hon. Ira B. Card next Wednesday evening.

If you have moved into the city, or become of age, or been naturalized, or removed from one ward to another since the last election, be sure and register next Tuesday in the ward in which you now reside.

GEN. J. B. SREEMAN, of Toledo, an eccentric and unstable politician, addressed the Greenbackers in Hangsterfer's Hall on Tuesday evening.

The Detroit Post and Tribune has at last discovered what has been sought after for ages: that is in what the unparagonable sin consists.

ON THE fourth page of this issue of the Argus will be found the letter of Gov. Tilden denying all knowledge of and all responsibility for those cipher dispatches, or of any attempts to bribe or corrupt any member of any canvassing board.

JOHN ATKINSON, who smelled corruption in the Wayne County Democratic Convention and opened his batteries on the ticket nominated, has again signalized his devotion to principle by coming out against Gen. Williams and declaring for John Hieffron.

THE Lansing Journal claims to have never heard of George H. Pendleton, Allen G. Thurman, etc., "getting their principles from the Republican party."

"GERRYMANDER" that is the word on which the Republicans now ring the changes until they are hoarse. Of course it is the Democratic Legislature of Ohio which comes in for their denunciations.

IT HAS leaked out that efforts are being made to secure the vote of Irish and German Democrats who are Catholics, against Ira B. Card, Democratic candidate for Congress, because he is a Methodist and a local preacher in that denomination.

HON. O. M. BARNES, Democratic candidate for Governor, is making a very effective canvass. While reviewing at length the financial condition of the country, and disapproving certain Republican legislation, he stands firm for honest money, for the redemption of any and all paper currency in coin.

SENATOR McDONALD, the ablest, most consistent, and most courageous of the Indiana Democracy (the most consistent because he does not change his creed with the moon, and the most courageous because he refuses to sacrifice his cherished convictions at the behest of the policy platform makers of his State), says: "This greenback sentiment was an outgrowth of the hard times, and as times improve, as in all probability they will, the popular mind will settle down upon the old idea of a sound metallic system of money, with a convertible paper currency as auxiliary."

THESE indignant Republicans who cannot find words in which to express their horror over the alleged attempts of Tilden's agents to buy up a member of the Florida State Board of Canvassers should possess their souls in patience. As they did not succeed, and as the highest court in Florida has decided that there was nothing for them to purchase: that is that the vote of the State had been cast for Tilden at the polls, it would be poor for our Republican friends to pour out their curses in the right direction.

THE Lansing Journal—the soft-money editor of which has been out of humor for a year because he could not lead the Democracy of the State into the National-Greenback party—asks us: "And now will our friend tell us how long a man must train in the Democratic ranks to acquire a right to form his own opinion about questions on which the party is divided without incurring insolent abuse from the old, original Jacob Townsends of the party?"

THE Flint Democrat has gone mad on the greenback question. Repudiating the financial platform of the party and bestowing a kick upon the Free Press its editor says: "As for us we will neither follow nor advocate your hard money principles, because we conscientiously believe they are wrong."

"GERRYMANDER" that is the word on which the Republicans now ring the changes until they are hoarse. Of course it is the Democratic Legislature of Ohio which comes in for their denunciations.

IT HAS leaked out that efforts are being made to secure the vote of Irish and German Democrats who are Catholics, against Ira B. Card, Democratic candidate for Congress, because he is a Methodist and a local preacher in that denomination.

THE following extract from an address just issued by the Democratic Executive Committee of New York State commends to the Democracy of Michigan:

"There must be honest money, and known to be honest, and of uniform value all over the land—paper money that is convertible, when necessary, on demand into money that will buy all necessities of life without expansion or inflation in one direction, or shaying or contraction in another; money that will buy bread or pay taxes without loss to the holder; money based on substance rather than on party favoritism; money on labor performed and labor which will be produced rather than theory, idleness, expectation, and the capacity of a government or party printing machine."

THESE indignant Republicans who cannot find words in which to express their horror over the alleged attempts of Tilden's agents to buy up a member of the Florida State Board of Canvassers should possess their souls in patience. As they did not succeed, and as the highest court in Florida has decided that there was nothing for them to purchase: that is that the vote of the State had been cast for Tilden at the polls, it would be poor for our Republican friends to pour out their curses in the right direction.

THE Lansing Journal—the soft-money editor of which has been out of humor for a year because he could not lead the Democracy of the State into the National-Greenback party—asks us: "And now will our friend tell us how long a man must train in the Democratic ranks to acquire a right to form his own opinion about questions on which the party is divided without incurring insolent abuse from the old, original Jacob Townsends of the party?"

THE Flint Democrat has gone mad on the greenback question. Repudiating the financial platform of the party and bestowing a kick upon the Free Press its editor says: "As for us we will neither follow nor advocate your hard money principles, because we conscientiously believe they are wrong."

"GERRYMANDER" that is the word on which the Republicans now ring the changes until they are hoarse. Of course it is the Democratic Legislature of Ohio which comes in for their denunciations.

IT HAS leaked out that efforts are being made to secure the vote of Irish and German Democrats who are Catholics, against Ira B. Card, Democratic candidate for Congress, because he is a Methodist and a local preacher in that denomination.

THE Temperance Revival. The series of temperance meetings held in University Hall on Saturday, Sunday, and Monday evenings last, under the auspices of the Reform Club, are considered a success.

THESE indignant Republicans who cannot find words in which to express their horror over the alleged attempts of Tilden's agents to buy up a member of the Florida State Board of Canvassers should possess their souls in patience. As they did not succeed, and as the highest court in Florida has decided that there was nothing for them to purchase: that is that the vote of the State had been cast for Tilden at the polls, it would be poor for our Republican friends to pour out their curses in the right direction.

THE Lansing Journal—the soft-money editor of which has been out of humor for a year because he could not lead the Democracy of the State into the National-Greenback party—asks us: "And now will our friend tell us how long a man must train in the Democratic ranks to acquire a right to form his own opinion about questions on which the party is divided without incurring insolent abuse from the old, original Jacob Townsends of the party?"

THE Flint Democrat has gone mad on the greenback question. Repudiating the financial platform of the party and bestowing a kick upon the Free Press its editor says: "As for us we will neither follow nor advocate your hard money principles, because we conscientiously believe they are wrong."

"GERRYMANDER" that is the word on which the Republicans now ring the changes until they are hoarse. Of course it is the Democratic Legislature of Ohio which comes in for their denunciations.

IT HAS leaked out that efforts are being made to secure the vote of Irish and German Democrats who are Catholics, against Ira B. Card, Democratic candidate for Congress, because he is a Methodist and a local preacher in that denomination.

THESE indignant Republicans who cannot find words in which to express their horror over the alleged attempts of Tilden's agents to buy up a member of the Florida State Board of Canvassers should possess their souls in patience. As they did not succeed, and as the highest court in Florida has decided that there was nothing for them to purchase: that is that the vote of the State had been cast for Tilden at the polls, it would be poor for our Republican friends to pour out their curses in the right direction.

HILL'S OPERA HOUSE. C. J. WHITNEY, Lessee. FOR TWO NIGHTS ONLY. TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 29 and 30. THE C. L. GRAVES. Soldier's Trust Combination! SUPPORTING GEO. C. BONIFACE

THESE indignant Republicans who cannot find words in which to express their horror over the alleged attempts of Tilden's agents to buy up a member of the Florida State Board of Canvassers should possess their souls in patience. As they did not succeed, and as the highest court in Florida has decided that there was nothing for them to purchase: that is that the vote of the State had been cast for Tilden at the polls, it would be poor for our Republican friends to pour out their curses in the right direction.

THE Lansing Journal—the soft-money editor of which has been out of humor for a year because he could not lead the Democracy of the State into the National-Greenback party—asks us: "And now will our friend tell us how long a man must train in the Democratic ranks to acquire a right to form his own opinion about questions on which the party is divided without incurring insolent abuse from the old, original Jacob Townsends of the party?"

THE Flint Democrat has gone mad on the greenback question. Repudiating the financial platform of the party and bestowing a kick upon the Free Press its editor says: "As for us we will neither follow nor advocate your hard money principles, because we conscientiously believe they are wrong."

"GERRYMANDER" that is the word on which the Republicans now ring the changes until they are hoarse. Of course it is the Democratic Legislature of Ohio which comes in for their denunciations.

IT HAS leaked out that efforts are being made to secure the vote of Irish and German Democrats who are Catholics, against Ira B. Card, Democratic candidate for Congress, because he is a Methodist and a local preacher in that denomination.

THESE indignant Republicans who cannot find words in which to express their horror over the alleged attempts of Tilden's agents to buy up a member of the Florida State Board of Canvassers should possess their souls in patience. As they did not succeed, and as the highest court in Florida has decided that there was nothing for them to purchase: that is that the vote of the State had been cast for Tilden at the polls, it would be poor for our Republican friends to pour out their curses in the right direction.

EXTRAORDINARY BARGAINS At the Cash Dry Goods House of BACH & ABEL.

50 pieces Black Cashmeres, all wool, at 50, 60, 65, 75, 80 cts. 50 pieces Colored Cashmeres, in all the new and desirable shades, from 25 cents up.

Great Bargains in Flannels! Great bargains in Table Linens, Bleached and Brown. Napkins, very cheap. 50 dozen Towels at 25c, same as sold ten days ago for 40 cents.

IN OUR CLOAK AND SHAWL DEPARTMENT WILL BE FOUND TREMENDOUS BARGAINS!

150 styles of Cloaks to select from. Good Cloaks for $3.50, $4.00, $5.00 and $6.00. No person consulting their own interest would think of buying until they examine our tremendous stock.

SPECIALTIES! 50 dozen mens' all wool hose at 25 cents per pair. 3 cases Bleached Muslin at 8 cents, better than Lonsdale and just as good as Fruit of the Loom.

OUR MOTTO IS CASH AND ONE PRICE TO ALL! NEW ARRIVAL OF FALL AND WINTER CLOTHING

WM. WAGNER'S! No. 21 South Main Street, Ann Arbor. Are you going to Paint? THE BEST IN THE WORLD IS THE Chemical Paint, MANUFACTURED BY Geo. W. Pitkin & Co., 85 & 87 Market Street, Chicago, Ill.

GET YOUR PROPERTY INSURED BY C. H. MILLEN, Insurance Agent No. 4 South Main Street, ANN ARBOR, MICH.

JOHN KECK, MANUFACTURER OF FURNITURE OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS, Are now offering Great Inducements to Purchasers.

SAVE MONEY $6, 792, 649.98. BY BUYING THEIR FURNITURE Direct of the Manufacturers.

ANTON EISELE, Corner Detroit & Catharine Sts. DEALERS IN—Monuments & Gravestones Manufactured of Foreign and American GRANITE and MARBLE.

RAILROADS. MICHIGAN CENTRAL RAILROAD. MAY 15, 1878. GOING WEST.

Table with columns for Station, Day, and Time. Includes Detroit, Ann Arbor, Jackson, and other stations.

Table with columns for Station, Day, and Time. Includes Toledo, Detroit, and other stations.

Table with columns for Station, Day, and Time. Includes Toledo, Detroit, and other stations.

Table with columns for Station, Day, and Time. Includes Toledo, Detroit, and other stations.

Table with columns for Station, Day, and Time. Includes Toledo, Detroit, and other stations.

Table with columns for Station, Day, and Time. Includes Toledo, Detroit, and other stations.

Table with columns for Station, Day, and Time. Includes Toledo, Detroit, and other stations.

Table with columns for Station, Day, and Time. Includes Toledo, Detroit, and other stations.

Table with columns for Station, Day, and Time. Includes Toledo, Detroit, and other stations.

Table with columns for Station, Day, and Time. Includes Toledo, Detroit, and other stations.

Table with columns for Station, Day, and Time. Includes Toledo, Detroit, and other stations.

THE EAST. ARTHUR CHEENEY, manager of the Globe Theater, Boston, is dead. Some excitement has been produced among New York stock speculators by the failure of Haar & Co., stock and bullion brokers. The senior member of the firm, Wm. H. Haar, died last week, leaving a stock and held in $800,000. He charges that a conspiracy, headed by Jay Gould, was the cause of the failure.

A DISPATCH from Providence, R. I., reports that the bark Susan, of New Bedford, which left that port Oct. 12, with a crew of twenty-five men, on a whaling voyage, encountered a hurricane, capsized, and all but three of the twenty-five were drowned.

REAR ADMIRAL DOWLING, Senior Flag Officer on the retired list of the navy, was just died at Huntington, L. I. Admiral Dowling was the son of the capt. of Maj. Andrew, and the last surviving officer of the battle of Lake Champlain. He was born in New York, and had purchased a totting horse, which he sold for $25,000.

COL. J. H. WOOD, of Wood's Museum, fame, now a resident of New York, has failed for many thousands of dollars.

POTTER, the man who suggested that a world roll a wheelbarrow from a point in Ohio to San Francisco, has accomplished his task in a time less than that estimated.

EVANGELIST MOODY is on a flying visit to Chicago, his old home. He will winter in Baltimore, where he proposes conducting a series of religious meetings.

The Constitutional Convention of California has adopted a resolution memorializing the President and Senate of the United States to modify the Burlingame treaty to prohibit Chinese immigration.

The United States Circuit Court at St. Louis has ordered the foreclosure and sale of the great bridge which spans the Mississippi river at that place, under the mortgage held by the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific R.R. Co. for $4,000,000, and the second $2,500,000. The sale takes place on the 30th of December.

Dr. Woodworth Walker, of New York, has been elected to the chair of pathology at the University of California at San Francisco. He is a native of New York, and has been a resident of California for many years.

A BAND of robbers, who were preparing to make an attack on a Kansas Pacific railway train, near Fort Ellsworth, were surprised in camp by officers, who arrested the leader, one Mike Burke, and wounded another. The other robbers escaped.

A DOZEN of the Cheyennes whom Maj. Thornburgh failed to find in the sand-hills north of the Union Pacific railroad pit in an appearance at a stage station only thirty miles from Sidney, Neb., last week. They killed a man and a boy, and a freight train, and escaped. It is thought the savages have established themselves in the mountains of Colorado, raiding the settlements and freight trains during the winter.

CATHOLIC BISHOP ROSECRANS died peacefully of hemorrhage of the lungs at Columbus, Ohio, on the 10th inst. He was a brother of Maj. Gen. Rosecrans.

THE SOUTH. ADVANCES from the fever-infected districts of the South to Oct. 16, report hot weather all along the Mississippi valley, and the outlook exceedingly discouraging. The disease was fastening itself upon new country districts daily, and the mortality was increasing. It was witnessed that has characterized the appearance of the plague at Vicksburg, where the death toll has risen to 1,000. At Memphis there has broken out at Helena, Ark., and Little Rock had set up a rigid quarantine against the afflicted town. At New Orleans the death toll has risen to 1,000. At New Orleans the death toll has risen to 1,000.

A DISPATCH from Natchez, Miss., dated Oct. 14, says: "A fight occurred with the negroes yesterday in Goldman's field, some four miles above Waterford, La., in which it is said that thirty-five negroes were killed, and a whole lot of property destroyed. The negroes were further trouble, while the general impression is that the negroes will not again assemble. The police are on the alert, and the city is in a state of alarm. Fifty more men left here this evening in a special train for New Orleans. A plantation near Natchez has been burned, and the negroes have been driven off. The plantation was burned, and the negroes have been driven off. The plantation was burned, and the negroes have been driven off.

A SHOCKING accident is reported from Lynchburg, Va. During a marriage ceremony at a colored Baptist church, which was crowded to suffocation, a piece of plastering fell from the ceiling. Some one in the audience became unbalanced and cried out, "The church is falling." The scene that followed this announcement was indescribable. An uncontrollable panic ensued, and the people rushed to the windows, and from the windows to the ground, fifty or sixty feet below, meeting instant death or permanent injury. The persons who were killed were: a woman and her child, and a man and his child. The bodies were found in the street, and the scene was a scene of horror.

ADVICES from the plague-ridden localities of the South to Oct. 16, report the advent of cooler weather and a gratifying decrease in the mortality roll. The fever broke out on the railroad cars, which were sent down the Mississippi river, and the epidemic was ordered to proceed up the river to quarantine below St. Louis. The fever broke out on the railroad cars, which were sent down the Mississippi river, and the epidemic was ordered to proceed up the river to quarantine below St. Louis.

PREPARATIONS are making to try 340 nihilists at Odessa. The cable reports a collision railway collision at Pontypittd, in Wales. Twelve persons were killed and forty were injured. The collision was caused by a train from London colliding with a train from Cardiff.

The distribution of Exposition prizes took place at Paris on the 21st of October. Among the Americans who received decorations of the Legion of Honor are mentioned Commissioner General Wm. C. McCormick, who was made Commander. Prof. F. B. Barnard and Wm. B. Stary, who are made officers. Cyrus H. McCormick and Walter A. Wood, who were made Chevaliers, have been raised to officers. Thomas A. Edison and Elisha Gray are made Chevaliers. The list of recipients is long, and includes many names of distinction.

Foreign Immigration. The revival of foreign immigration to this country begins to be very noticeable. During last month the arrivals of immigrants at New York were 8,995, against 6,673 for the same month last year; during the last three months they were 25,263, against 20,109 in the same time last year. Causes are now at work that will still further add to this increase. The Socialists in Germany have avowed their intention of emigrating to the United States, and are endeavoring to avoid persecution at home. There are something like 900,000 Socialists voters in Germany; should they all take it into their heads to come hither with their families they would form a handsome addition to our population. The same thing would also have the effect of accelerating and enlarging the immigration movement. It will not be surprising, if, ere long, we shall see the tide of immigration rolling in upon us in as great a volume as ever.

HILL ON HAYES.

A Searching Review of the Administration of Mr. Hayes. By Hon. H. H. Hill. Drovers, a volume. Meet Them—Perjury Elevated into a Virtue and Forgery into an Art. Some months ago, Senator Hill, of Georgia, who was, upon Mr. Hayes' accession to office, so kindly disposed toward the President as to almost excite the suspicion of his Democratic constituents, published some rather caustic allusions to the President's civil-service policy. These remarks have been sharply commented upon by Northern journals. Mr. Hill, replying to a Georgia acquaintance, defends his accusation in the following letter:

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 2, 1878. MY DEAR SIR: In this day of much printing it is almost impossible to have a man's name mentioned in the public press without being misrepresented in some way. I have never met any "stars upon an upstart" who have ever expressed a "hatred toward Mr. Hayes," because I have never felt it necessary to complain or impute in any private or public way. I have never recommended any man to office who was recommended by me. I have never recommended any man to office who was recommended by me. I have never recommended any man to office who was recommended by me.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

It is no palliation now to say that the larger number of these appointments were made by the President, and that the President is a member of his Cabinet. If Mr. Johnson had made Wilkes Booth a member of his Cabinet he could not have done so, because he would not have been chosen by the people. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet. The President is a member of his Cabinet, and the President is a member of his Cabinet.

THE MONEY OF FRANCE.

The Greenbacks are forever, in their speeches, referring to the financial prosperity of France, and generally attribute it to a supposed abundance of legal-tender paper money, which paper money, they assert, enabled France to pay off her indemnity to Germany. We have more than once given the facts in relation to the French monetary system, and now produce the statement, and if the fiat-money people can derive any comfort or any support to their views from it, they are welcome. To us the example of France furnishes the strongest proof that the best and wisest policy for any embarrassed government to pursue is to maintain the whole business of the country on a specie basis as firmly as possible.

The money of France was founded and began operations in 1796, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. It was a private corporation. Among its privileges was that of issuing promissory notes payable at sight. At that time there were several other banks in France authorized to issue notes, but the Bank of France was the only one that was well managed, it had increased in credit and in capital. In 1803 France adopted its present coinage system, and in the same year the capital of the Bank of France was increased to 45,000,000 francs, or $90,000,000. The bank was granted the exclusive privilege of issuing notes to issue bank notes. Three years later the capital of the bank was doubled, and in 1808 it was required to open branches in the provinces. Branches were opened at Lyons and Lille, but were subsequently closed. In 1808 the bank was authorized to issue notes, and in 1808 it was required to open branches in the provinces. Branches were opened at Lyons and Lille, but were subsequently closed.

The money of France was founded and began operations in 1796, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. It was a private corporation. Among its privileges was that of issuing promissory notes payable at sight. At that time there were several other banks in France authorized to issue notes, but the Bank of France was the only one that was well managed, it had increased in credit and in capital. In 1803 France adopted its present coinage system, and in the same year the capital of the Bank of France was increased to 45,000,000 francs, or $90,000,000. The bank was granted the exclusive privilege of issuing notes to issue bank notes. Three years later the capital of the bank was doubled, and in 1808 it was required to open branches in the provinces. Branches were opened at Lyons and Lille, but were subsequently closed.

The money of France was founded and began operations in 1796, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. It was a private corporation. Among its privileges was that of issuing promissory notes payable at sight. At that time there were several other banks in France authorized to issue notes, but the Bank of France was the only one that was well managed, it had increased in credit and in capital. In 1803 France adopted its present coinage system, and in the same year the capital of the Bank of France was increased to 45,000,000 francs, or $90,000,000. The bank was granted the exclusive privilege of issuing notes to issue bank notes. Three years later the capital of the bank was doubled, and in 1808 it was required to open branches in the provinces. Branches were opened at Lyons and Lille, but were subsequently closed.

The money of France was founded and began operations in 1796, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. It was a private corporation. Among its privileges was that of issuing promissory notes payable at sight. At that time there were several other banks in France authorized to issue notes, but the Bank of France was the only one that was well managed, it had increased in credit and in capital. In 1803 France adopted its present coinage system, and in the same year the capital of the Bank of France was increased to 45,000,000 francs, or $90,000,000. The bank was granted the exclusive privilege of issuing notes to issue bank notes. Three years later the capital of the bank was doubled, and in 1808 it was required to open branches in the provinces. Branches were opened at Lyons and Lille, but were subsequently closed.

The money of France was founded and began operations in 1796, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. It was a private corporation. Among its privileges was that of issuing promissory notes payable at sight. At that time there were several other banks in France authorized to issue notes, but the Bank of France was the only one that was well managed, it had increased in credit and in capital. In 1803 France adopted its present coinage system, and in the same year the capital of the Bank of France was increased to 45,000,000 francs, or $90,000,000. The bank was granted the exclusive privilege of issuing notes to issue bank notes. Three years later the capital of the bank was doubled, and in 1808 it was required to open branches in the provinces. Branches were opened at Lyons and Lille, but were subsequently closed.

The money of France was founded and began operations in 1796, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. It was a private corporation. Among its privileges was that of issuing promissory notes payable at sight. At that time there were several other banks in France authorized to issue notes, but the Bank of France was the only one that was well managed, it had increased in credit and in capital. In 1803 France adopted its present coinage system, and in the same year the capital of the Bank of France was increased to 45,000,000 francs, or $90,000,000. The bank was granted the exclusive privilege of issuing notes to issue bank notes. Three years later the capital of the bank was doubled, and in 1808 it was required to open branches in the provinces. Branches were opened at Lyons and Lille, but were subsequently closed.

The money of France was founded and began operations in 1796, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. It was a private corporation. Among its privileges was that of issuing promissory notes payable at sight. At that time there were several other banks in France authorized to issue notes, but the Bank of France was the only one that was well managed, it had increased in credit and in capital. In 1803 France adopted its present coinage system, and in the same year the capital of the Bank of France was increased to 45,000,000 francs, or $90,000,000. The bank was granted the exclusive privilege of issuing notes to issue bank notes. Three years later the capital of the bank was doubled, and in 1808 it was required to open branches in the provinces. Branches were opened at Lyons and Lille, but were subsequently closed.

The money of France was founded and began operations in 1796, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. It was a private corporation. Among its privileges was that of issuing promissory notes payable at sight. At that time there were several other banks in France authorized to issue notes, but the Bank of France was the only one that was well managed, it had increased in credit and in capital. In 1803 France adopted its present coinage system, and in the same year the capital of the Bank of France was increased to 45,000,000 francs, or $90,000,000. The bank was granted the exclusive privilege of issuing notes to issue bank notes. Three years later the capital of the bank was doubled, and in 1808 it was required to open branches in the provinces. Branches were opened at Lyons and Lille, but were subsequently closed.

The money of France was founded and began operations in 1796, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. It was a private corporation. Among its privileges was that of issuing promissory notes payable at sight. At that time there were several other banks in France authorized to issue notes, but the Bank of France was the only one that was well managed, it had increased in credit and in capital. In 1803 France adopted its present coinage system, and in the same year the capital of the Bank of France was increased to 45,000,000 francs, or $90,000,000. The bank was granted the exclusive privilege of issuing notes to issue bank notes. Three years later the capital of the bank was doubled, and in 1808 it was required to open branches in the provinces. Branches were opened at Lyons and Lille, but were subsequently closed.

The money of France was founded and began operations in 1796, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. It was a private corporation. Among its privileges was that of issuing promissory notes payable at sight. At that time there were several other banks in France authorized to issue notes, but the Bank of France was the only one that was well managed, it had increased in credit and in capital. In 1803 France adopted its present coinage system, and in the same year the capital of the Bank of France was increased to 45,000,000 francs, or $90,000,000. The bank was granted the exclusive privilege of issuing notes to issue bank notes. Three years later the capital of the bank was doubled, and in 1808 it was required to open branches in the provinces. Branches were opened at Lyons and Lille, but were subsequently closed.

The money of France was founded and began operations in 1796, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. It was a private corporation. Among its privileges was that of issuing promissory notes payable at sight. At that time there were several other banks in France authorized to issue notes, but the Bank of France was the only one that was well managed, it had increased in credit and in capital. In 1803 France adopted its present coinage system, and in the same year the capital of the Bank of France was increased to 45,000,000 francs, or $90,000,000. The bank was granted the exclusive privilege of issuing notes to issue bank notes. Three years later the capital of the bank was doubled, and in 1808 it was required to open branches in the provinces. Branches were opened at Lyons and Lille, but were subsequently closed.

The money of France was founded and began operations in 1796, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. It was a private corporation. Among its privileges was that of issuing promissory notes payable at sight. At that time there were several other banks in France authorized to issue notes, but the Bank of France was the only one that was well managed, it had increased in credit and in capital. In 1803 France adopted its present coinage system, and in the same year the capital of the Bank of France was increased to 45,000,000 francs, or $90,000,000. The bank was granted the exclusive privilege of issuing notes to issue bank notes. Three years later the capital of the bank was doubled, and in 1808 it was required to open branches in the provinces. Branches were opened at Lyons and Lille, but were subsequently closed.

The money of France was founded and began operations in 1796, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. It was a private corporation. Among its privileges was that of issuing promissory notes payable at sight. At that time there were several other banks in France authorized to issue notes, but the Bank of France was the only one that was well managed, it had increased in credit and in capital. In 1803 France adopted its present coinage system, and in the same year the capital of the Bank of France was increased to 45,000,000 francs, or $90,000,000. The bank was granted the exclusive privilege of issuing notes to issue bank notes. Three years later the capital of the bank was doubled, and in 1808 it was required to open branches in the provinces. Branches were opened at Lyons and Lille, but were subsequently closed.

The money of France was founded and began operations in 1796, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. It was a private corporation. Among its privileges was that of issuing promissory notes payable at sight. At that time there were several other banks in France authorized to issue notes, but the Bank of France was the only one that was well managed, it had increased in credit and in capital. In 1803 France adopted its present coinage system, and in the same year the capital of the Bank of France was increased to 45,000,000 francs, or $90,000,000. The bank was granted the exclusive privilege of issuing notes to issue bank notes. Three years later the capital of the bank was doubled, and in 1808 it was required to open branches in the provinces. Branches were opened at Lyons and Lille, but were subsequently closed.

The money of France was founded and began operations in 1796, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. It was a private corporation. Among its privileges was that of issuing promissory notes payable at sight. At that time there were several other banks in France authorized to issue notes, but the Bank of France was the only one that was well managed, it had increased in credit and in capital. In 1803 France adopted its present coinage system, and in the same year the capital of the Bank of France was increased to 45,000,000 francs, or $90,000,000. The bank was granted the exclusive privilege of issuing notes to issue bank notes. Three years later the capital of the bank was doubled, and in 1808 it was required to open branches in the provinces. Branches were opened at Lyons and Lille, but were subsequently closed.

The money of France was founded and began operations in 1796, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. It was a private corporation. Among its privileges was that of issuing promissory notes payable at sight. At that time there were several other banks in France authorized to issue notes, but the Bank of France was the only one that was well managed, it had increased in credit and in capital. In 1803 France adopted its present coinage system, and in the same year the capital of the Bank of France was increased to 45,000,000 francs, or $90,000,000. The bank was granted the exclusive privilege of issuing notes to issue bank notes. Three years later the capital of the bank was doubled, and in 1808 it was required to open branches in the provinces. Branches were opened at Lyons and Lille, but were subsequently closed.

The money of France was founded and began operations in 1796, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. It was a private corporation. Among its privileges was that of issuing promissory notes payable at sight. At that time there were several other banks in France authorized to issue notes, but the Bank of France was the only one that was well managed, it had increased in credit and in capital. In 1803 France adopted its present coinage system, and in the same year the capital of the Bank of France was increased to 45,000,000 francs, or $90,000,000. The bank was granted the exclusive privilege of issuing notes to issue bank notes. Three years later the capital of the bank was doubled, and in 1808 it was required to open branches in the provinces. Branches were opened at Lyons and Lille, but were subsequently closed.

The money of France was founded and began operations in 1796, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. It was a private corporation. Among its privileges was that of issuing promissory notes payable at sight. At that time there were several other banks in France authorized to issue notes, but the Bank of France was the only one that was well managed, it had increased in credit and in capital. In 1803 France adopted its present coinage system, and in the same year the capital of the Bank of France was increased to 45,000,000 francs, or $90,000,000. The bank was granted the exclusive privilege of issuing notes to issue bank notes. Three years later the capital of the bank was doubled, and in 1808 it was required to open branches in the provinces. Branches were opened at Lyons and Lille, but were subsequently closed.

The money of France was founded and began operations in 1796, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. It was a private corporation. Among its privileges was that of issuing promissory notes payable at sight. At that time there were several other banks in France authorized to issue notes, but the Bank of France was the only one that was well managed, it had increased in credit and in capital. In 1803 France adopted its present coinage system, and in the same year the capital of the Bank of France was increased to 45,000,000 francs, or $90,000,000. The bank was granted the exclusive privilege of issuing notes to issue bank notes. Three years later the capital of the bank was doubled, and in 1808 it was required to open branches in the provinces. Branches were opened at Lyons and Lille, but were subsequently closed.

The money of France was founded and began operations in 1796, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. It was a private corporation. Among its privileges was that of issuing promissory notes payable at sight. At that time there were several other banks in France authorized to issue notes, but the Bank of France was the only one that was well managed, it had increased in credit and in capital. In 1803 France adopted its present coinage system, and in the same year the capital of the Bank of France was increased to 45,000,000 francs, or $90,000,000. The bank was granted the exclusive privilege of issuing notes to issue bank notes. Three years later the capital of the bank was doubled, and in 1808 it was required to open branches in the provinces. Branches were opened at Lyons and Lille, but were subsequently closed.

The money of France was founded and began operations in 1796, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. It was a private corporation. Among its privileges was that of issuing promissory notes payable at sight. At that time there were several other banks in France authorized to issue notes, but the Bank of France was the only one that was well managed, it had increased in credit and in capital. In 1803 France adopted its present coinage system, and in the same year the capital of the Bank of France was increased to 45,000,000 francs, or $90,000,000. The bank was granted the exclusive privilege of issuing notes to issue bank notes. Three years later the capital of the bank was doubled, and in 1808 it was required to open branches in the provinces. Branches were opened at Lyons and Lille, but were subsequently closed.

The money of France was founded and began operations in 1796, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. It was a private corporation. Among its privileges was that of issuing promissory notes payable at sight. At that time there were several other banks in France authorized to issue notes, but the Bank of France was the only one that was well managed, it had increased in credit and in capital. In 1803 France adopted its present coinage system, and in the same year the capital of the Bank of France was increased to 45,000,000 francs, or $90,000,000. The bank was granted the exclusive privilege of issuing notes to issue bank notes. Three years later the capital of the bank was doubled, and in 1808 it was required to open branches in the provinces. Branches were opened at Lyons and Lille, but were subsequently closed.

The money of France was founded and began operations in 1796, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. It was a private corporation. Among its privileges was that of issuing promissory notes payable at sight. At that time there were several other banks in France authorized to issue notes, but the Bank of France was the only one that was well managed, it had increased in credit and in capital. In 1803 France adopted its present coinage system, and in the same year the capital of the Bank of France was increased to 45,000,000 francs, or $90,000,000. The bank was granted the exclusive privilege of issuing notes to issue bank notes. Three years later the capital of the bank was doubled, and in 1808 it was required to open branches in the provinces. Branches were opened at Lyons and Lille, but were subsequently closed.

The money of France was founded and began operations in 1796, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. It was a private corporation. Among its privileges was that of issuing promissory notes payable at sight. At that time there were several other banks in France authorized to issue notes, but the Bank of France was