A Wife's Benediction.

By G. H. LANE. Raise my pillow, husband, dearest; Faint and falter grows my breath...

He that's more than friend or brother, He'll be with thee to the end; No shadow o'er the portal leading to thy heavenly home...

DETECTIVE AND THE BANK.

By OSCAR F. HEWITT. The Devonshire Bank had been robbed. An early notification of its President, Mr. Arlington...

He reported himself as hopeful, but still without a clew or definite scheme of action. On the night following the fourth day of his vigilance...

When the steamer arrived at her pier, among the first to step sprily ashore, summoned a black-eyed hickam, limp with the frogs of the river...

Replacing his treasure in the same spot, he descended the ladder with an abating care, passed quietly out, and secured the door.

Two days after Farrington was arrested on an Albany train by two constables, one of whom, the rascal, conducted him to the smoking-car.

Two days following he notified the bank that his time was up. He admitted himself humbled by his failure...

though unsuccessful services. Accepting by a part as a safeguard against suspicion, expressing a hope that the abstracted funds might be ultimately recovered...

Without opposition, basing her claim upon the statement that she was the convict's sister, and enforcing it by her address and beauty, she daily obtained admission to the prison.

At the same time Miss Kitty Lenton was prostrated with a fever, which he assumed the proportions of an epidemic. After several disappointments and vexatious delays, the fugitive Deputy-warden found his brother detective, Mr. Thomas Thompson...

larger denominations into circulation. By a strange coincidence, his confederates had forwarded him for distribution among his deputies the same amount as that abstracted from the bank...

Woman and Marriage. It is the custom to treat the subject of marriage as a matter of indifference, to speak seriously of it, or to give it thoughtful attention to it. But is it really so?

Some one has said that marriage is a rock, on which the life is either anchored or wrecked. And never was there a more apt illustration of the truth...

Old Style and New. The old methods of doing business are fast passing away, and whether the new will be better or not, we must wait to see.

Costly School Building. The most costly school building in the world is probably the new building at Hanover, commenced the construction of a magnificent palace...

Woodchuck. N. A., of Lawton, Mich., gives through the Western Rural, his experience with woodchucks. He says: I have tried many plans and find that a mark rifle in the hands of an expert marksman is the best instrument for destroying these pests.

A HUNGRY MAN.—A countryman, seating himself at a fashionable restaurant with the intention of taking a hearty dinner, summoned a waiter and made known his purpose...

CONGRESS vs. THE PRESIDENT. In a recent letter Hon. Alexander H. Stephens clearly defines the right of Congress to designate the purpose for which the people's money shall be expended.

SEEDING WHEAT. Now that Michigan's wheat crop for 1879 is mostly secured, it is time to turn attention to the crop for 1880. It is scarcely to be expected that the State will harvest three such enormous wheat crops in succession...

Defaming the Government. Secretary Sherman was delivered of a remarkable speech in Portland last week. It was the first of a series of public appearances the Secretary is announced to make this fall...

Some eminent Civil Service Reformers. Mr. Everts is spending a good deal of his time on the beautiful banks of the Connecticut River, engaged in the rearing of his herds and flocks...

The Michigan Argus.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 8, 1879.

Six Hours or Less of Work and Big Pay.

A slight refreshing of memory will recall the tidal wave that swept over this country in the Congressional elections of 1874. Among the principal reasons that induced the voters to rise in their power and thrust aside an overwhelming Republican majority was that of official extravagance.

General Notes.

N. Y. City has had one fatal case of yellow fever. Wisconsin spends $10,000,000 for intoxicating drinks and not to exceed $3,000,000 for schools. Chicago papers are grumbling because the recent session of the legislature of Illinois cost the state $273,709.73.

Gone to Enjoy His Reward.

Before last week's issue of the Argus was entirely printed, Father Van Erp passed into spirit land, expiring at 6:30 A. M. on Friday. From the moment the injury fell him to the expiring breath he was totally unconscious of his condition, or the hopes of thousands of friends here and elsewhere.

Within the doors of the church...

within the doors of the church were permitted to pass around the catafalque and view the remains for the last time. Several hundred people again availed themselves of this opportunity to look once more upon the never-to-be-forgotten features of their late priest and friend.

Summer Clothing and Winter Clothing, Summer Underwear and Winter Underwear, Summer Hats and Winter Hats, in the same proportion as above. Call and see.

JOE. T. JACOBS, The One Price Clothier.

Personal Mention.

The brain of Voltaire has been offered to the French Academy, which refuses it. Eugenie will make her last visit to her mother, and after a few months stay, retire to a convent and end her life within the sacred walls.

Political Topics.

The Mobile Register notes that the picture of John Sherman, together with his biography, is finding its way into the offices of United States officials in Alabama and elsewhere.
