

The Day At The Pool

Have you ever seen a small guy break a big thing? Its pretty funny. Read on to find out more.

My story took place in Western Michigan. We rented a big house with a pool with a diving board. With a river in the back. In the summer of 2011. It was a warm and pleasant evening. five families who are pretty good friends came. We get together a lot for dinner and stuff like that.

It was a warm summer evening and everyone was having a great time leaping into the pool on the diving board. I thought nothing could go wrong. Then some of the parents started to jump in.

“Hey Ken, do you want to go jump in the pool?” said dad.

“No I’m going to break that thing” said Ken.

“No you won’t” said dad.

“Ok fine” said Ken.

Then one of my friends dad walked up (who isn't very heavy by the way) and he leaped and broke the diving board! The bolt in the back of the diving board broke off. It was really funny and everyone was laughing really hard it was hysterical. I thought “What the heck are we going to do now!”.

Then I thought about how will we fix it. People were thinking “how did the diving board brake!”. Well we were kind of worried because this wasn't our property so we didn't know if we should call the owner or not or if we had to pay for.

In conclusion I learned that you should always check to make sure a diving board is strong before you leap off of it. I hope you found this as funny ass I did. So now I am done writing. Thank you for reading.
