

Hello, my name is Bob. I'm just a typical dog - cute I should say, since I'm a dog - who likes sitting by the window when the sunlight glimmers through my eyes. . I like spending days as I want: I like wandering in the forest, looking for new friends nature has given me, I like staring dreamily at the light streaming in through the windows, and I like reading over and over again the story of superheroes, and how they save and help people. Just like a typical day, I was reading my favorite book about Super Dog - my favorite episode, the one where Super Dog defeats the bad guy Lex Dogther.

"Hey there Bob, no mean to interrupt you but it's lunch time" said Alex, as he opens the door. Alex is a trusty human who is like a mother to me. Even though I ruined his work once and clawed his back he loves me and cares about me, as much as I love him and he's my favorite human. He is very athletic, nice and has the best jokes ever!

I closed my book, right after finishing the good part, and ran outside to the kitchen. I could smell the delicious, tasty food. Ahhh, Tuna Sandwich, my favorite. He makes the best tuna sandwich, I should tell you. Alex is special; he's different than the normal ones. He can talk with dogs. Apparently some of his family and ancestors can turn into dogs, and it's one of those gene and science thing, which I'm not really interested in.

The doorbell rang, and I automatically knew that Lac was here, because he never rings the doorbell once, he rings it several times loudly, just like himself. He was here to have lunch with us - when I told him that Alex was going to be home today, he asked me if he can come over too, because he knows that Alex makes the best tuna sandwich.

This time, it wasn't just Lac who came to eat Alex's wonderful, tremendous tuna sandwich. Lac came with Jake, a 8 year old with brunette hair and blue eyes. Jake is Alex's son, in fact, and he's one of those special ones in his family. Yes, he can turn into a dog. It's similar to a werewolf, except you turn into a dog, not a wolf.

At first, I didn't know what to say. Not because I don't like Alex, or we're not really good friends. In fact, we're very close and have been real good friends. It's just that something happened last summer...

"Bob, what's up?"

"Hey Lac, how've you been?" we greeted each other as we walked into the kitchen. Lac was really talkative and bright, so he started talking about his school day, how his lost his key but found it in his locker, and how he bumped into someone that he didn't know. "...so I said sorry of course, I didn't want to fight with him or anything."

"Haha, good job Lac. That happened to me once too."

"Yeah, luckily he was a nice guy and just let me go my way."

Lac and I had some good conversations. They were very interesting, as usual I should say, since Lac has really good stories and he's a good story teller. But I didn't really talk to Jake.

And I guess Lac noticed that, since he knows that we've been good friends and last time they met was like a year ago. Jake is a really smart kid, he's an 8th grader already even though he's eleven, and he's been doing many academic stuff.

“Hey, how aren’t you guys talking?” Lac asked both of us. As soon as he did, Jake and I turned around and looked at each other. “Why, are you guys awkward? I doubt it.”

“No, no. It’s fine. I just...”

“Okay okay, we have time. What happened between you two.”

“Lac, we’re fine-”

“C’mon, tell me. I got you.”

Jake gave me a glance, telling me that it was okay to tell him. I sighed and said “Okay fine, but it’s not that big of a deal-”

“So what happened?”

Here goes my story:

The warm sunlight glimmered through my window in the living room, as cool summer breeze tickled me lightly.. Alex was over at my place with Jake, and Jake and I were building Lego battle ships.

“I’m going to work Jake, take an eye on Bob, and Bob, you take an eye on Jake, too. He’s only ten years old, be careful.”

“Don’t worry, Daddy, I got my two eyes on Bob. No need to worry.”

“Oh really? Because last time I went to work leaving you two, my paper for my boss disappeared and I got in trouble, hm?”

“Daddy, it wasn’t our fault. Super Dog was trying to defeat the bad guy and your paper was its magic carpet. We had to get rid of it.”

“Okay whatever. Just make sure you guys are safe and don’t do anything stupid.”

“Don’t worry, Dad, I got it all handled.” Jake said. As soon as Alex left, Jake hopped around the room and said “Now! What do you want to do! It’s gonna be so fun!”

“Oh Jake, please don’t jump around. You’re making me tired already.” I murmured, half asleep.

“Okay Bob, but can we play now? We’ll have so much fun!” shouted Jake as he turned himself to a dog.

“Yeah, let’s get going. But first, let me get Lac. He’s upstairs, I believe.”

I was going to say thank you to Jake, because I would’ve trembled and fall down the stairs if I was still half-asleep, but thanks to Jake, I was completely awake. But then, Jake quietly said, “Um, Bob...? I think you want to see this...”

I walked up to Jake as if I didn’t really care, but as soon as I looked at his face I automatically knew that something was wrong. His face showed frustration and scareness. I quickly ran up to the window Jake was looking through. There was a red button with words on it. I didn’t really know what it is, or how the button is there, but I knew something bad was going to happen.

“Um Jake? How about you get Lac right now.”

“...”

“Jake? Do you hear me?”

“Yeah, yeah...”

“Jake, it’s okay. Just get Lac first.”

I continued observing the button, wishing to be able to read the words but not getting close to it, because you never know what the button will do. I heard Lac groaning because he didn't want to get up. But soon, Lac and Jake came out from the room.

"Not cool, man. I was having the best dream ever-"

"Lac."

"I had this car, a red car, and it was just fabulous-"

"Lac."

"Wait what? Yeah, what's up?"

"Look out the window."

He looked at me as if I was a random crazy dude who talks about weirdness of the world and god. But he realized that Jake and I were being serious. So he walked up to the window and looked outside.

"Um, everything's perfectly normal."

"Lac, do you see that red button over there? No, the one in the middle. It hasn't been there. It just appeared."

"Dang, what is that? We should go downstairs, and observe more."

"It might be dangerous, though. We don't know what the button might do." I said, nervously. I was totally not scared.

"Bob, I think we should go and check what it is."

"But-"

"We'll be fine. Let's just take a look."

We went downstairs, and I was still concerned and scared, because Alex told us to be safe, and I told him I would keep my eye on Jake.

As soon as we went there, the words shocked us. It said "SELF DESTRUCTION".

What could that be? we all wondered in half fear and half curios. Maybe we should stay away from it I said All of us agreed. There it was a red button and 3 scared

Dogs shivered in fear. "Where did it come from?" I asked. Millions of questions were racing through my mind. And probably others too. We ran back inside the house and hid in our blankets.

BOOOOOOOOOOM! A large sound that startled us all." If I think that right now I think that button was timed" . And that's all I remembered The next thing we knew where we were, in a Hospital. The other guys have woken up and I woke up. "What happened?" Lac asked. "I think that thing just blowed us all up" I replied. And that thing gladly it didn't blow up the house. So there it is the story of an unknown button that caused a lot of Danger. The scientists are still trying to find out but they failed and gave up last week. " What do you guys wanna do now" I asked. "I just want to rest" Jake told me.

While we were going up we saw something with a purple light also kind of greenish . When we went down to check it out we ran to the back yard seeing what is it.

It was a Lever! It said SELF DESTRUCTION. "Oh no here we go again!" Jake moaned. There was this great green light. The next thing I knew was we were in the Hospital!!!!

THE END